ABOUT THE BOOK

THE 1947 FREEDOM TRAIN

The 1947 Freedom Train is the only children's book in today's market that has the ability to impact, inspire and motivate elementary age students to appreciate our nation's heritage, all through the travels of this magnificent train that carried our founding documents and other historical treasures to every state at that time. Millions of Americans of all ages stepped aboard this red, white and blue train to view our national treasures and were reminded of what made America strong and the privilege of living in a free country.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Kathy Maggart

Kathy Maggart's heart is thoroughly passionate on the subject of America's children learning about the amazing journey of the 1947 Freedom Train! As a former educator with her Master's Degree in Elementary Education, she is intently focused on our upcoming generations of children, growing up with wonderful knowledge of our country's history and a heartfelt understanding pertaining to the profound privilege of living in America.

Along with this, she believes children can learn that chasing dreams is provided by our freedoms, and for this, we owe tremendous gratitude to all our military heroes and their families past, present and future for the sacrifice it continues to take to maintain our liberties.

Working in elementary education for years, she fully recognizes the need for innovative, high-quality resources, and the wide variety of learning activities it takes to reach students with different learning styles.
